Silicone Elastomers Technology Conference

Munich, 1–2 September 2027

SELASTEC is the curated international conference for silicone elastomer technology. Over two days in Munich, it brings together the people who develop, process, and apply silicone elastomers, all working with LSR and HCR.

SELASTEC starts with the application side. The engineers who turn silicone into finished products and the teams who specify it set the direction, together with the material producers, compounders, processors, machine and equipment suppliers, and mold manufacturers across the chain. An international program committee shapes the agenda, so the content stays technical and relevant.

KEY FACTS

- Date: 1–2 September 2027, with a pre-conference evening on 31 August
- Location: hbw ConferenceCenter Haus der Bayerischen Wirtschaft, Munich, Germany
- Format: single-track, curated program, held in English
- Audience: around 150 international participants, application side first: engineers and R&D teams who develop and specify silicone parts, together with the full supply chain
- On site: accompanying exhibition and an evening networking event

YOUR OPPORTUNITY: PARTNERING WITH SELASTEC

- Access to the application side that other silicone events rarely attract, in a curated single-track program
- A fully curated program with no paid speaking slots. Your brand appears in an environment the audience trusts
- Visibility before, during, and after the conference: website, newsletter, social media, the on-site program, and the mobile guide
- A post-event partner report with audience statistics and the reach of your placements
